Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

Dear Sirs:

I understand that you are proposing a change to the Universal Service Fund that would have people who make few long distance calls pay the same fee as people or businesses that make many calls. This sounds very unfortunate for those of us who are simple residential users.

I am very concerned about the monthly expenses for my cell phone. I searched for the most economical plan that I could find and strictly limit my use of my cell phone, reserving my calls for only those few times in a year when I travel. I should not have to bear the same burden that businesses and people who are constantly using their phones on a twenty four hour basis do.

Sincerely,

Edwin B. Morris 3600 SW 110th Ave Miami, FL 33165
